Dear Casper,

You certainly are the friendliest ghost we've ever seen here on Long Island's. Bloomingdale's was so happy to have you here in Garden City last Saturday, and to see your happy likeness floating throughout the entire store in the thousands of balloons you and your cub scout friends distributed.

Cordially,

Phyllis Hedeman

Director of Public Relations

You certainly are a good scout. Thanks again to the happy holiday spirit.

"BOOM! VOOM! BOOM!" The heavy artillery was letting go with everything it had. The shells were blowing up huge chunks of dirt and splattering all over the area. What was once a cornfield, was now a lot of huge holes. No sooner had the smoke cleared than it started to rain.

The Sarge headed a group of men crawling through the woods. "We'll spend the night in this field," the Sarge ordered. "Take cover!" the Sarge said as the men slid into the holes.

The Sad Sack slid down the side of one into three feet of mud! "We'll be safe in these holes!" the Sarge observed. "That is, if we don't drown in this mud," the Sack groaned. "You'll feel better after you've had something to eat," the Sarge told the men. The Sack took out his "C" rations from his hip pocket and griped. "Oh, yes! The food tastes good covered with MUD -- it gives it a nice flavor!"

"OH, SHUT UP!" the Sarge yelled. "You guys are always complaining." Just then another artillery barrage hit all around the men. "KA-VOOM!" It splattered mud in all directions. The mud hit the Sack in the mouth just as he was about to take a bite of his food. He threw down his food in disgust and reached into his pocket for a bar of candy. He took one bite and spit it out. "Ugh!" "What's wrong with that chocolate bar?" asked the Sarge. "That wasn't chocolate -- that was MUD!" the Sack groaned.

"You guys are always griping," the Sarge said as he bedded down for the night in the oozing mud. The other men sat up all night long complaining.

When the sun started to come up, the Sarge stretched his legs in the mud and yawned. "Nothing like a good night's sleep." He yawned, as he slowly woke up. The men didn't sleep a wink and were dog tired. Now the men were really griping. They were tired and disgusted. "Aw! Shut up!" the Sarge yelled. "You guys are always GRIPING!"

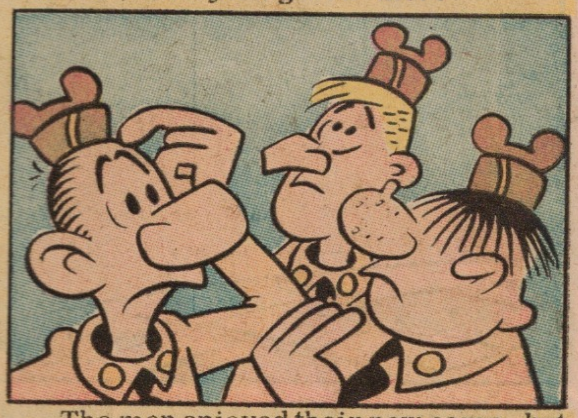
The trucks arrived to take the men back to camp, and they crawled in the back "moo-ing" like a bunch of cows. "That's all we are! A bunch of cattle!" the Sad Sack griped.

The war maneuvers were over and the men were being returned to a new camp. They groaned all the way along the route.

The trucks ran into the new camp, and the men crawled out the back. The men couldn't believe their eyes. All the buildings were brand spanking new. The Sarge motioned for them to enter one of the buildings. "This is your new home," he said, as they stepped inside. It was beautiful. The walls were painted a soft biege color, and the whole place was AIR-CONDITIONED! "Wow!" the Sack said as he sat down on his bunk. Foam rubber matresses! "Look at this bathroom! It's all pink tile!" The men had never seen anything like this before in the army. "Put on your bathing suits," the Sarge ordered, as he pointed out the window to the new olympic-size swimming pool. The men were all so excited they tripped all over themselves trying to get to the pool. "This is living!" the Sack said, as he floated on his back. "Hurry up! It's time for the afternoon dance," the Sarge announced over the loudspeaker. "WOW!" the Sack said, "This is the way I always dreamed army life should be!"

The men all got out of the pool when they heard the orchestra playing from the huge new ballroom. A busload of beautiful WACs pulled up, and the men made a dash for them even though they were still in their bathing suits!

After the dance, the men took the WACs over to the new camp theatre. It was beautiful and had all the latest movie equipment. "This is really a dream of a camp," the Sack said. The new camp had EVERYTHING. Bowling alley, color television lounge, drive-in theatre, everything was there.



The men enjoyed their new camp, but there was one thing missing in their army lives. After awhile it began to get on their nerves. Things were too nice at the new camp. "Everything was perfect," the Sack complained. It was when the Sarge took them back into the woods on maneuvers that it hit them.

They had all missed the GRIPING! "I'm dog tired," the Sack said. "M-O--O-O! We're all a bunch of cattle," said another -- the men were happy once more!

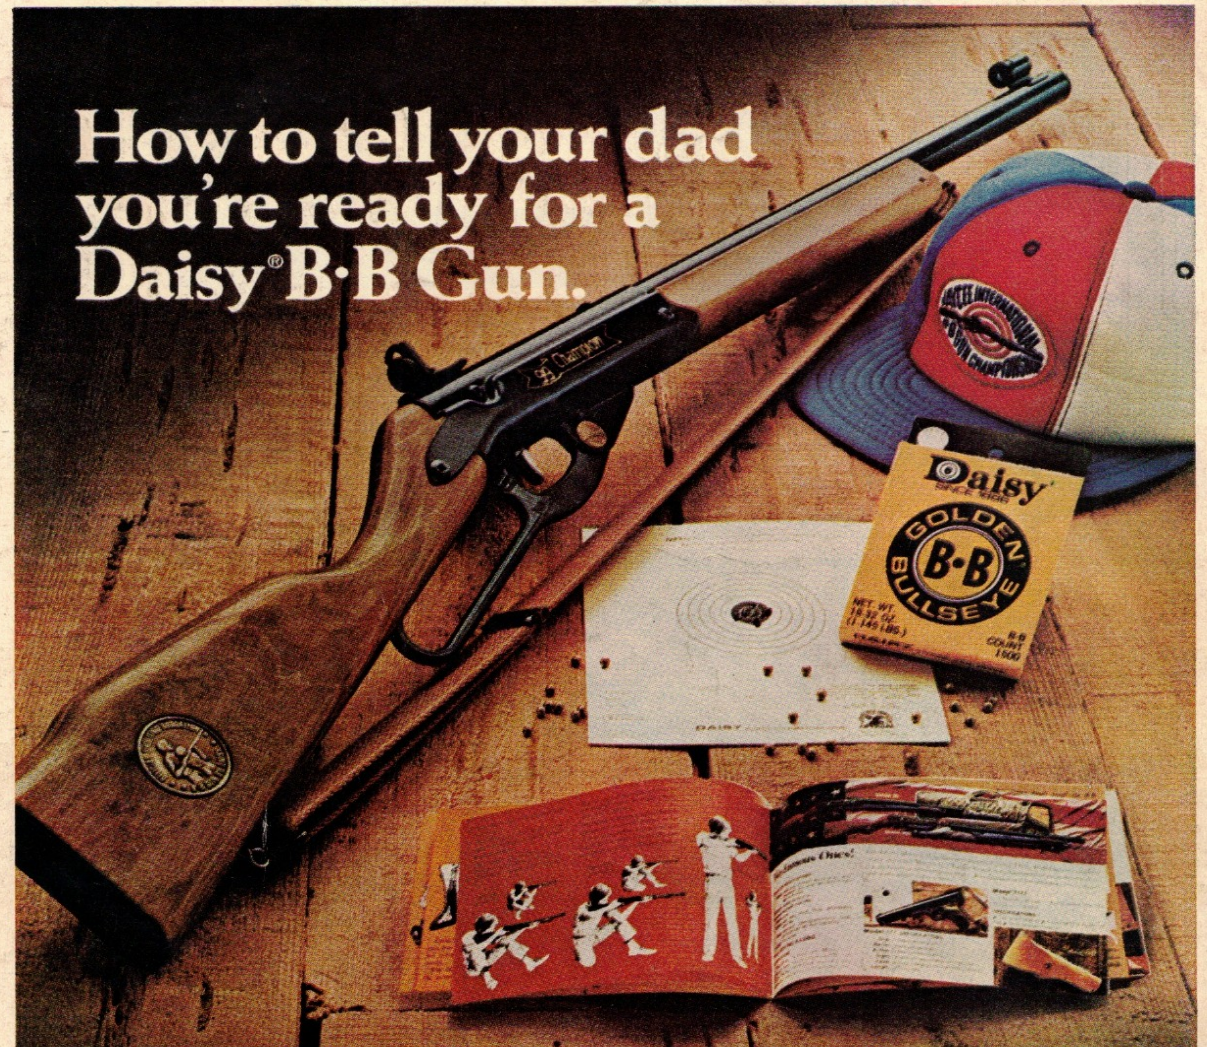
How to tell your dad you're ready for a Daisy® B·B Gun.



It's in this free booklet.

Wow your dad with the Code of the Daisy Rifleman. He'll know you care enough to learn gun safety rules and responsibilities. Find out how to build a 15-foot indoor or outdoor shooting range. It'll tell him you probably have room for a Daisy B·B Gun. Show him the 33 models of Daisy B·B Guns, including the ones built for your size and age (from 8 on up). You'll find all these facts in "The Air Rifle Marksman by Daisy."

Get your free copy of "The Air Rifle Marksman" at most Daisy dealers. Or write Daisy and we'll send you one. But be sure Dad sees the booklet when you get it. It might tell him you're ready for a Daisy B·B Gun right now.

Do you know?

Which is the safe way to carry a B·B Gun?

Answer: They are both correct. Find out more gun safety and fun facts in your free Daisy booklet.
